GOPHER POISONS!

MR. FARMER—Your attention for one minute, please

We have been successful in satisfying the Councilors of Collingwood and Sounding Creek that our Gopher Poison prices are right. They have again favored us with their orders and we hope to give them the same satisfaction we did last year. To do this we shall need the assistance of every farmer in either of these municipalities.

The supplies of every kind of Gopher Poison are going to be short. It is essential that you get yours whilst the getting is good. Come in for what you are entitled to the first time you are in town. Don't put it off until the Gophers come around, and get left.

Formalin

We have the same genuine brand we handed out last year. The price is right and the strength guaranteed. Save yourself money by bringing in your containers. These cost money and you pay for it.

Uncle Sam has voted the large sum of $535,000,000 for his navy to fight the German submarine frightfulness.

And yet it is only a short time since President Wilson made his famous neutral peace speech.

But then the President wasn't "onto" the Hun working that Jap-Mexico deal at that time.

Calico is said to be the highest in 50 years.

And the same can be said of all skirts.

The British food controller says there is an unprecedented potato shortage not only in the United Kingdom, but throughout the world.

The "spud" is getting to be worth its weight in gold.

The British Admiralty admits the loss of 94 vessels during the month of February by submarines.

But during the same period 9,463 vessels arrived at British ports, and 9,124 sailed from British ports, or a total of 18,587 sailings, with a loss of only 94 vessels.

And the Hun subs were going to starve Britain into submission in 90 days.

"Another Hun conspiracy disclosed," is almost a daily news item these days.

What have the Huns been doing for over forty years but hatching out conspiracies.

Wheat and hogs are neck and neck as which of the two is going to keep ahead in smashing record prices.

The wheat "hog" has got the best of it up to date.

"Austria's answer is unsatisfactory," to Wilson's note.

Sure thing! The Kaiser had a finger in that pie.

British win their fight for the Appam in the United States courts.

What's likely to Appam now?

It is natural, of course, to find opinions strong on the market.

Independent Electors

OF THE CONSTITUENCY OF ACADIA

A convention of the Independent Electors of the constituency of Acadia, for the purpose of formulating a Party Platform and for nominating a Candidate for the next provincial election, was held on Thursday, March 1st, at 2 p.m., in Arm's hall, Chinook.

R. N. Mangles, president, in the chair.

Minutes of last meeting were read and adopted.

Finlay Robertson—W. S. Sears that payment of bills for use of hall for convention, printing and advertising be left in the hands of the Executive.

Then followed the formulating of a Party Platform. This Platform was adopted plank by plank as follows:

1 Lorne Proudfoot—H. M. Brunelle that the aims of this Independent movement, as stated in a general way, are to secure control of the Provincial Government and to institute a business administration for Party Government, also to establish Government Ownership and Control of every feasible public utility.

2 Finlay Robertson—Thos. Western, that this Convention is in favor of the Abolition of the Patronage System

3 Geoff Thomas—Geo. N. Johnston that the appointment of all civil servants shall be made by merit, rather than by political pull.

4 Thos. Western—Fred Lake, that this Convention is in favor of Provincial Flour Mills, Stock Yards, Packing Houses, and Cold Storage Plants.

5 H. M. Brunelle—F. W. Edler, that no more natural resources be alienated from the Crown, but brought into use only under short term leases in which the interests of the public shall be properly safe-guarded, such leases to be granted only by public auction.

6 Geo. N. Johnston—Thos. Western that this Convention is in favor of Rural Credit Banks, to be operated at cost.

7 Western—Lake, that in order to replace the loss of revenue created by tariff reduction, we are in favor of direct taxation, as follows:

(a) By a direct tax on unimproved land values, including all natural resources.

(b) By a sharply graduated income tax upon all incomes over $4000 a year.

(c) By a heavy graduated inheritance tax on large estates.

(d) By a graduated income tax on the net profits of all corporations whose earnings amount to more than ten per cent. (10%) in any one year on their paid up capital.

Chinook Breezes

This week has been considerably easier on the coal bin.

The Banner Hardware has added an addition 24x28 to the east end of their store.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Clarke Fraser returned from their trip to Ont. on Tuesday morning.

F. Dare of Cereal is reported in Monday's casualty list as being seriously ill.

Mr. Boyer, who purchased the Milligan feed barn, is putting an 18x64 lean-to on the west side of the barn.

Much Improved in Health

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Isbister returned home this week from their trip to Ontario. They report having had a very pleasant time, and Mr. Isbister very much improved in health.

Were Good Citizens

We are sorry to lose Mr. and Mrs. Hardie and their family from town. Although only residents here for a short time, they have made many friends. They are leaving to go on their farm at Edburg.

Making Improvements

Mr. Urch, the new proprietor of the Chinook pool hall, has made an addition to the building 26x38 which he is fitting up as a bowling alley. There will be two alleys and a snooker table in the extension.

Due Warning

At the last meeting of the village Council, it was unanimously decided to strictly enforce the provisions of the Sanitary By-law of the Public Health Act, with regard to the cleaning-up of all back yards, closets, manure heaps, &c. The Council means business in this matter.

Give Them a Welcome

This week we welcome to Chinook five new families into town, namely: Mr. J. L. Carter, the new proprietor of the hotel; Mr. Fitzgerald agent for the Massey-Harris; Mr. Sorenson, who takes a position with Mr. J. R. Miller; Mr. Richardson, who takes Mr. Hardie's former position with Mr. H. C. Briggins; and Mr. Urch, proprietor of the pool hall and bowling alley. Two other families are locating here at the end of the month, making seven new families for month of March.

Chinook Curling Club

WINS THE BEAVER CUP

The Beaver Curling Cup was donated by the Beaver Lumber Co. for open competition to all Curling Clubs along the Goose Lake line. It is a double-rink competition, and has created considerable interest in the curling game along the C. N. R. Kindersley first held the cup, then Alsask, and early this winter the Oyen curlers succeeded in winning it for their Club. Now it has been won by Chinook, and it is to be hoped the local Club will be able to defend it for some time.

The weather being mild, the ice at the Oyen rink was a little sticky, but the best that could be had under the circumstances. In the first game, after a hard fought battle, Dalton defeated Miller by 12-10, Dalton winning the game with his last rock.

The second game followed at once, and was keenly contested from start to finish. On the 10th end, Chinook led by one point, but on the 11th Oyen gained a four-end, and the prospects for the cup coming to Chinook did not look very promising. However, by beautiful curling Mr. r's rink gained a 5 end, putting Chinook two points to the good and winning the trophy.

The Chinook Club are proud of their success, as this is their first season at curling.

The Cup is for open competition and the local Club must defend it against all comers, so the public may see some very interesting games.

The Oyen Curlers are a bunch of good sports and excelled themselves in their hospitable treatment of the Chinook Club.

After the game (1:30 a.m.) a fine lunch was provided to which everyone did justice.

Following is the personnel of the rinks and scores:

Board of Pension Commissioners

Special Arrangements Being Made to Facilitate Handling of Pensions

The Dominion Government have appointed a Board of Pension Commissioners for Canada with offices in Ottawa. As this board wish to cause as little delay as possible in dealing with communications with regard to pensions, they wish the public to correspond directly with the Board of Pension Commissioners, Ottawa.

A great deal of delay may be caused by communications being sent through other Departments of the Government.

The Patriotic Fund Association and the Military Hospitals Commission have kindly consented to give information and assistance to those wishing to direct to the Board of Pension Commissioners. These societies have offices in certain localities throughout Canada.

In addition in order to facilitate the granting of pensions, the Board is opening branch pension offices in Vancouver, Calgary, Edmonton, Regina, Winnipeg, London, Hamilton, Toronto, Barrie, Kingston, Ottawa, Montreal, Quebec, St. John and Halifax. All information with regard to pensions may be obtained from these offices.

With so thorough a preparation at hand as Miller's Worm Powders, it is unwise and culpably careless. A child subjected to the attacks of worms is always unhealthy and will be stunted in its growth. It is a merciful act to rid it of these destructive parasites, especially when it can be done without difficulty.

Sudan Grass Pastures

Good Pasture Can Be Maintained During the Early Summer

Sudan grass is a quick-growing, and very nourishing pasture for pigs and calves.

Last spring, quite late, I sowed seeds across broadcast, and in spite of a very protracted drought, the plant made a remarkable growth. Hogs and calves were turned in when the grass was about three and one-half feet high. The stock ate it ravenously, making a splendid gain. After the crop was well eaten down, the stock were transferred to another pasture, and in three weeks the second crop was again ready for use. By having two fields, sowing one two weeks before the other, and changing the stock from one pasture to the other as the crop is grazed, a first-class pasture can be maintained during the entire summer.

Experiences during the past two years with Sudan grass convinces me that it is one of the most drought-resisting crops grown either for hay or pasture.—Exchange.

To Every Woman Who Is In Pain

MRS. WILLIAMS SAYS USE DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS

She Suffered for Two Years, But Three Boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills Made Her a New Woman.

Adamsville, Kent Co., N. B.—(Special)—"I can recommend Dodd's Kidney Pills to every woman who suffers." So says Mrs. Williams, a well-known and highly respected lady residing here. Mrs. Williams was a sufferer for two years till she used Dodd's Kidney Pills. She found in them quick relief and complete cure. That is why she is so enthusiastic in her praise of them. "My troubles started with a cold," Mrs. Williams states, "I never seemed to get over the effects of it. I had cramps in my muscles and my joints were stiff. There were dark circles under my eyes which were puffed and swollen. I had a bitter taste in my mouth and I suffered from severe headaches. "I felt heavy and sleepy after meals and my attacks of neuralgia, heart flutterings and rheumatism were soon added to my troubles. I took just three boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills. I cannot be too glad that I did so."

Every one of Mrs. Williams' symptoms was a symptom of kidney disease. She says that Dodd's Kidney Pills cured her.

It Will Prevent Ulcerated Throat
At the first symptoms of sore throat, which presages ulceration and inflammation, take a spoonful of Dr. Thomas' Electric Lotion. A little sugar to it to make it palatable. It will allay the irritation and prevent the throat from swelling that is so painful. Those who were periodically subject to quinsy have thus made themselves immune to attack.

The German Idol
Hindenburg Eclipse the Kaiser in Eyes of Germans

The extent to which Hindenburg is eclipsing the German Emperor is being much remarked upon throughout Germany, says the Zurich correspondent of the Central News. It is Hindenburg who has the courage to tell the German people that their production of munitions is being overtopped by the Allies; it is Hindenburg, not Hohenzollern, who, after two and a half years of warfare, demands of the German people the great sacrifice of the levy en masse.

The Kaiser, at this critical of all moments, is content to remain in the background, leaving Hindenburg to command not only my armies, but also "any people."

Not all the blood of the Hohenzollerns has been able to save the Emperor William from eclipse at this supreme crisis.

At the present moment Hindenburg appears in German eyes as Bismarck and Moltke rolled into one. "Hindenburg has confidence," says a Munich correspondent, "and this is the great war which now clearly threatens the downfall of Prussian militarism. I hear on every side that, especially since his ignominious failure at Verdun, the Crown Prince is spoken of everywhere in Germany in terms of contempt."

A British Way

Jerome J. Jerome, the English author, writes of addressing an audience of British soldiers returned from France when he paid certain compliments to the enemy's valor. His auditors applauded. If he had said the same things to a meeting of civilians, he writes, he would have been hissed and hooted from the stage. The Britisher in him feels an obligation, often the legacy of former experience on the playing field, to give the enemy, the opponent, credit where credit is due him. Frequently it may be noted that the spectator is more bitterly or blindly partisan than the player who wears his colors. In his official report after the Jutland battle, it will be recalled, Admiral Jellicoe paid the enemy an unusually warm compliment for his bravery at one point in the conflict.—Ottawa Journal.

PALE, FEEBLE GIRLS

Weakness Generally Comes On As Womanhood Approaches

Girls upon the threshold of womanhood often drift into a decline in spite of all care and attention. How often one sees girls who have been strong and lively become suddenly weak, depressed, irritable and listless. It is the dawn of womanhood—a crisis in the life of every girl—and prompt measures should be taken to keep the blood pure and rich with the red tint of health. If the blood is not healthy at this critical stage the body is weakened and grave disorders follow. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have saved thousands of young girls from what might have been lifelong invalidism or an early death. They are a blood-builder of unequalled richness strengthening weak nerves and producing a liberal supply of red, healthy blood which every girl needs to sustain her strength. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have proved their great value over and over again to young women whose health was failing. Miss A. Sternberg, Halesbury Road, New Liskeard, Ont., says—"I have much reason to be grateful to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills as they restored me to health, if, indeed, they did not save my life. In 1914 I began to feel run down, and the doctor who was called in said that mine was a bad case of anaemia. I lost flesh, always felt tired, and I got so weak that I could scarcely hold a spoon to take a drink. My heart would flutter alarmingly. The doctor did not seem to be able to do me any good at all and my family and friends all thought that I was in a declining and could not recover. I was in bed for some weeks when an aunt came to see me and urged that I try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. My father got the pills and by the time I had taken three boxes there was a noticeable improvement, and from that on I steadily progressed toward recovery. I continued using the pills for some time longer, and they restored me to my old health and strength. I shall never cease to praise this medicine, and to urge all weak run-down girls to give it a fair trial as I have proved in my own case their great merit."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists. Write for leaflet and get them by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Mid-Summer

As the sun in her hot nodded and trembled they persistently tied the ear of the man seated next to her. He stood it in silence for some time, then he suddenly turned to his pocket knife out of his pocket and began to sharpen it on the sole of his boot.

"Whatever are you g-g-going to do?" gasped the girl.

"Oh, don't you worry miss," said the man, testing the edge of the blade on his thumb. "But the next time as them oats gets in my ears there's going to be a harvest."—Chicago Daily News.

The Wrong Man

The citizen gazed helplessly at the piles of drifted snow that lay on the sidewalks in front of his home.

"What would you take to clean this walk?" he asked the first man who came along.

"A shovel, mister," responded the fellow as he plodded on his way.

"I HEAL SORES"

To heal sores, does not mean to heal over the outer skin, only to heal the nerve break out again. Real healing means going to the root of the trouble and curing from the base upward. That is the way Zam-Buk heals, and that is why Zam-Buk cures are lasting.

Zam-Buk, as soon as applied to a sore, commences its process. It soothes the pain by drawing out the inflammation. Being a strong antiseptic, it thoroughly cleanses the sore by destroying all germs; and then by its marvellous healing power, it promotes the growth of new, healthy tissue. As the new tissue gradually develops, it casts off the old, until the diseased patch is replaced by new, healthy flesh.

Effected by this unique method of healing, Zam-Buk cures are thorough and permanent. Send the article and a stamp for return postage, to Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, and we will send you a free trial box.

A seed Exchange Bureau was organized a short time ago by the Field Husbandry Department of Manitoba Agricultural College, with the idea of accepting samples of seed representative of lots that farmers would have for sale, and, after testing and examining them for germination and purity, file them for reference and supply to any subsequent enquirer information as to the names and addresses of farmers holding such seed for sale. A large response has been made, and the college is now ready to supply lists of growers of good quality seed.

What Britain Has Done

Hear the words of Mr. Lloyd George on the new British army: "They have faced the greatest army in the world, the greatest army the world has ever seen, the best equipped and the best trained, and they have beaten them, beaten them, beaten them. The 'finest' of the world, the 'Essex yokel,' and the 'Kensington-drafter'—these have done this, and they have won the day for Britain. And yet three years ago not only Germany, but many people had degenerated and were unworthy of their mighty traditions and glorious past."—London Chronicle.

Catarrhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured by Local Applications

It is a fact that deafness cannot be cured by the use of local applications. Catarrhal deafness is caused by an inflammation of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a running sound or buzzing in the ears, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result. Catarrhal deafness cannot be cured by local applications, but it can be cured by Catarrhal Catarrh Cure, which acts on the blood on the mucous lining of the system. We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Catarrhal Deafness that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Circulars free. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

Tree Planting

Planting a Thousand Trees a Day by Machinery

A machine originally designed to facilitate the work of setting out tomato and cabbage plants, is being used to plant trees in New York State under the supervision of the Forest Service. From 10,000 to 15,000 forest tree seedlings are planted in a day's time with this machine. The contrivance is of about the same proportions as a moving machine and requires the services of three men and two horses. One man drives the machine, another handles the seedlings. In operation, the machine makes a furrow into which the small trees are dropped at regular intervals, governed by automatic spacers. As this is done, a pair of rollers replace the dirt about the roots, which are automatically supplied with water and fertilizer. A marker draws the line on which the next row of trees is to be planted as the machine travels along.

A process has been discovered in England for the manufacture of artificial milk for human consumption. It is claimed that a wholesome and inexpensive substitute can be made from peanuts, soy beans, sugar, water, and the mineral salts found in milk. The milk so produced, it is stated, may be condensed and sold in tins in the usual way or dried to a powder and sold in bottles. It may be given a certain percentage of cream by the addition of coconut oil or one of the other vegetable oils. The residual matter, rejected after the special factors required have been taken from them, are mixed, dried and used for the manufacture of artificial milk. As a curiosity, the "milk" thus produced contains only ten per cent of water, and used as food for cattle.

Britain's New Problem

In spite of all warnings that it was unwise in the extreme for wives and families of Canadian soldiers to follow their husbands and fathers overseas, it is estimated there are now over 50,000 of these dependents there causing uneasiness. There are two disquieting views of the situation: First, the fact that it means so many more mouths to feed; second, that the transportation of these people back to Canada at the end of the war will be a problem that steamship companies cannot themselves be unable to solve.—London Advertiser.

Britain Preparing 20,000 Aeroplanes

Rear-Admiral Perry, U. S. N., is responsible for a very remarkable statement concerning preparations in Europe for extending the scope and power of aerial warfare.

"Development of the aeroplane will mean a revolution in travel and commerce as it has meant in war," Rear-Admiral Perry said. "In France there are said to be more men in the aviation service than are in the army of the United States, and in Great Britain more than in our navy." Germany is said to have 10,000 aeroplanes. The time is near when the air service will be more important than the army and navy combined. It is the belief of many statesmen that the decision in the great war may come in the air."

The Squire's Sweetheart

It had been opened by a tall fair man, with a palette held on one hand. The hall door of the New Cottage opened straight into the hall sitting-room, without which no sense of its type is complete. The hall was evidently used by Mr. Egerton as a studio. It had a good northern light from two windows at the back. He had been painting when they had knocked at the door.

"Ah, come in," he said; "how d'ye do? You don't mind if I go on painting, do you? The light is particularly good today. Louise, this is Mr. Egerton."

He stopped suddenly, and laughed. The handsome, dark young woman who was posing for him, a veil of blue over her black hair, one arm supporting the sleeping child, frowned. The man was so droll, so bright with his golden fairness, that the Squire rather wondered she could frown.

"My name is Meyrick," he said. "I live at Silverthorne Manor. And this is my cousin, Hilary Strangways."

"Ah, delighted to meet you," said the chair. Louise, my dear, Mr. Meyrick, you've moved Susan's head a little. Louise, just wait till I settle it. Ah, that's right. I always take better when I'm painting. You'll have some tea?"

Despite his prejudice against Mr. Draper and all his works, the Squire conceded mentally that the room was a charming one. It was painted white, with a few bits of good china and glass, standing about as though laid down carelessly some bits of brilliant Eastern stuffs, canvases on the walls or floor, leaning against chairs and bookcases. There was something bizarre and delightful about this interior. The color of the loose garment Mrs. Egerton was wearing—a deep wine blue—on you shall sometimes see a night sky in summer, with gold stars upon it, was very beautiful. It brought out the dark beauty of Louise Egerton's face framed in the heavy hair—hair straight as falling water—while hung loosely about her head.

"May I move, Leo?" she asked, in a plaintive voice. "I want Dolly to see to the tea."

"You can't move," said her husband. "If you move you'll hurt everything. Dolly was gardening out there a minute ago. It isn't often the light is so good."

"Let me go," said Hilary. "If you will be so good," Lionel Egerton, relieved, went with his painting. "She can't have got very far. The domain is not extensive. Just tell her we must 'sove tea'."

Hilary went with alacrity. He was on the track of the pink sun-bonnet. With a pleasurable feeling of anticipation followed the private light to the little opening. Then he caught sight of her.

She was not alone. She was talking to a man; and there was a certain roughness about the man which aroused an unreasoning resentment and repulsion in Hilary Strangways's mind. The fellow was not a gardener. His air of easy intimacy bordered the assumption. He had apparently been helping Miss Egerton—if that was her name—in some gardening operation, for the two stood side by side before a new flower bed, and the man had a piece of string between his fingers with which he might have been measuring the bed.

Hilary had no idea how slim and elegant he himself looked as he came up the garden path towards them. He glanced at the other man with a lengthy challenge he was unaware of in his eyes. The other man looked back at him with an insolent expression which he took no trouble to disguise. He stood squarely where he was, with an air of having as much right in the place as Hilary.

"I beg your pardon," Hilary said, lifting his hat. "Mrs. Egerton asked me to find you. She said something about tea."

"I will come," said the girl, lifting her eyes to Hilary's face. She had magnificent eyes of dark blue, with long deep golden lashes. The eyes had a strange look, as though she were just waking out of sleep.

"I will come," she said, and looked at the man standing to the left, as though she were afraid. It was a momentary expression. She turned away from the man and looked at Hilary. The man with whom she had been talking, looked at Hilary with an insolent and challenging expression. His eyes were yellow in the whites of them. Hilary, if he observed the expression, did not notice it. He came up to Hilary, who was certainly beautiful to look at; and the more beautiful for her eyes being full of sleep, and the strange half-unwilling way in which she walked.

CHAPTER V

For Dolly

Intimacy made rapid progress between the Squire and Hilary and the Egertons. They were Bohemians, yet unlike any Bohemians the Squire had ever met. They were tall, slender and her pensive beauty, Mrs. Egerton added a lovely voice. When Hilary allowed her to stand up and move about, having deposited the sleeping child in a cot-bed at the door, she moved beautifully in her wonderful blue garments. She had taken off the veil and laid it away, and had coiled her hair up with a few rings through it on top of her small head.

"I am going to help Dolly to cut bread and butter," she said, smiling at Hilary. "Will you come too, Mr. Strangways?"

"Would Hilary go? Hilary was only too glad to go. He would have gone anywhere at the behest of a woman so gracious and charming as Mrs. Egerton. He could not imagine her doing anything but gracious and charming."

Dolly Egerton stood by a table in the kitchen cutting the bread and butter with an absent air. The tray had already been set with its pretty cups and saucers, its silver basin of sugar and jug of cream. The kettle was singing on a little oil stove. A canary was in the sunny window, the deep sill of which held a window-box full of narcissi and their fresh green grasses. Flies in her green overall, with a couple of wonderful red roses embroidered at the neck where they seemed to hold it together, was in keeping with the Arcadian kitchen.

"You are nearly ready, Dolly?" said Mrs. Egerton, and a coldness came into her soft, trailing voice.

"Yes," the girl answered dreamily, smiling at Hilary. "I was just about to make the tea."

"Then there is nothing for me to do. I'd better go back, or Leo will be fuming and will wake up the infant."

"Let me make the tea," said Hilary eagerly. "You've no idea how well I make it. I learned it at Oxford. I can't drink other people's tea."

"Yes, do let him make the tea, Dolly," said Mrs. Egerton. "I wonder if I shall like it. I never like Dolly's tea."

The girl kept her eyes down while her sister-in-law remained. Even an unobservant person like Hilary began to be aware of some trouble between them.

"Dolly is always half asleep," said Mrs. Egerton.

As soon as the door had closed, Dolly lifted her eyes. Some of the sleepiness had passed away from them. They certainly were glorious eyes, blue as the sky, and deep as the blue of passion-stormy eyes, full of a capacity for fastidious feeling, which set Hilary Strangways to thinking how she would look at a man if she loved him.

Her face brightened as she looked at him.

"Now," she said, "I am going to watch you making the tea. I hope Louise will like it better than mine. There is always something wrong about my tea to poor Louise. Afterwards you shall carry the tea in for me. If you will be so good, and I shall go on cutting bread and butter."

She found him an old china teapot on a cupboard high up in the wall to which she had to stretch in order to reach it. Handing it to him her hands touched, and he was struck by the hardness of hers. He supposed she had to work, poor little thing. It was a thousand pities she had to spoil her poor pretty hands.

He put the tea into the pot in reckless masculine fashion, absolutely refusing to heat the teapot, act according to any of the formulae. He had looked critically at the tea in the tin while he ladled it out; and she laughed, a fresh, girlish laugh, with the sleepiness gone from it.

"What's the matter with it?" she asked.

"Where does it come from?" "Mr. Draper, our landlord, who keeps the village shop, and runs Silverdale generally."

"Oh, that ruffian!"

Again the girl's face changed. It was an extraordinary face for changes of expression.

"I did not know he was a ruffian," she said, with a shake of her head. "In his voice. He is a very worthy person. Of course you would not like him here, in the country, where you are all such Conservatives."

Soldiers Will Settle in Canada

From an Interview with Lord Northcliffe by Viola Rogers in the Saturday Evening Post

A great many people are worrying themselves about after the war, and what is going to happen to all the women now doing men's work. Well, we have found out that the women have been doing men's work. Lots of young men in your country who read this would soon find that it is not the sort of work they are doing in the United States in any of the war countries. Their existence would be unbearable in the attitude of women. A very nice young American soldier, who was in London last year, but of course not in uniform, being an officer in the United States army abroad—told me he simply could not stand the starchy and whiplashed comments of women on the streets.

All our backs are being run by women clerks. I do not think that sort of work any more. My own whole life is as old as the hills. Statistics, has found that women clerks are quite as able as men. Men clerks servants have their last day. The whole race of butlers, footmen and flunkies have gone! Each day sees a disappearance of some of John Bull's most cherished institutions. The soldier seemed the most firmly entrenched man in the land two years ago. Today he has almost disappeared. He is listed, and goes home from the trenches on two or three days' leave, expresses very vividly his sentiments that will never do that sort of work any more."

What will become of these young soldiers? Many of them are being sent to the business in which they were, but not in clerical capacities. They must be taught to have the kind of their own. Statistics collected lately as to what the young soldier at the front wants when he comes home. He wants land, and the whole of the Canadians and Australians are laying themselves out to catch these young young men, and the whole world goes, but we do not mean to let too many of them wander from the old country; and I have no doubt that very attractive proposition will be offered to retain them.

The war has seen the practical disappearance of the horse as a source of amusement. The war has seen the checking of such games as football and cricket to an almost complete extent, and I do not believe they will ever be revived on anything like the scale we had them.

As for husbands in the future, I imagine that, though there are not enough husbands to go around in Great Britain, there are probably quite enough in the vast areas of the British empire, such as Australia, New Zealand and Canada. I believe the war will result in a much more speedy development of Canada. I have always thought that Eastern Canada was underdeveloped and undeveloped and when the young people went from Eastern Canada to the West they left behind them a world of opportunities for people who prefer ready-made farms to the task of breaking up the new soil of the Far West.

The terrible depletion of the aristocracy, all of whom have lost hundreds of thousands of pounds in the losses they incurred in the Wars of the Roses and the Civil War of 1640; but history has proved that strong family strains survive. There are certain dominant family names in your country, and I imagine that our dominant families will survive the war. They were the first to dash into the war, thus showing their virility; and I imagine that the vital forces left in their kinsmen will revive these families, just as I most firmly believe that with all its tragedies, the war has been a very important awakening for the British people.

The Lady of the House—Mary, it seems to me that the crankiest mistress gets the best cooking. The Lady of the Kitchen—Ah, gwan, gwan, with your flattery!

Boy Scout Notes

The Duke of Connaught Decorates a Canadian Scout Commissioner

During the Duke of Connaught's recent visit to France he met an old friend in the person of Col. F. Mendenhall, formerly Commissioner of the Boy Scouts in Montreal, and took this opportunity of investing Col. Mendenhall with the "Silver Wolf," the highest honor bestowed by the Boy Scouts Association. Col. Mendenhall has since the inception of the work in Canada been one of its most consistent and hard-working officers and the decoration was a mark of appreciation from the Boy Scouts Association in Canada, of which His Royal Highness the Duke of Connaught, was for five years the Chief Scout.

The Honorary Silver Wolf is bestowed on any rank at the discretion of the Chief Scout, exceptionally on a mark of appreciation from the movement. In 1911 Col. Mendenhall was the Boy Scouts contingent from Canada to the Coronation.

Mr. H. G. Hammond, the Provincial Secretary of the Boy Scouts in Ontario, is at present in England representing the Canadian General Council of the Boy Scouts Association. Mr. Hammond has been to France where he met many of the Canadian Scouts on service and recently he accompanied Lieut-General Baden-Powell on a visit to the Canadian Scouts at Shorncliffe Camp.

News of the appointment of Mr. Lorne W. Barclay, Canadian, by the post of Director of the Department of Education of the Boy Scouts of America, the sister organization of the Boy Scouts in Canada, has been announced. Mr. Barclay has been chosen to head this work from amongst a field of more than forty men, mostly Americans.

He is a natural leader, particularly with boys and young men. Born in London on December 24th, 1885, he attended primary schools in his native country and graduated from Park High School in 1904. He then attended the University of Toronto, where he secured his B.A. degree in 1906 and M.A. in 1907. During these two years he taught mathematics in Sinclair College. In 1909 Mr. Barclay took his degree of B.D. at Yale and then came to Canada to head the young people. During the summer of 1907 he directed the playgrounds work at Albany; in 1908 the same work at Montreal; in 1909 he was at the YMCA, and while attending Yale was in charge of Boy's Clubs at Lowell Settlement House. In 1910 he was Campmaster of Camp Madison, Pequanook, N. J., and from 1911 to 1912 he was actively engaged in the work of the Boy Scouts of America.

Trying to Smooth It Over

Judge—You are accused of assaulting your husband.

Defendant—I admit hitting him, but three periods of life when health and strength are most needed to withstand the pain and distress often caused by severe organic disturbances.

Judge—What did you hit him with?

Defendant—A sad iron, your honor.

Now comes the very important point, will the Reichstag admit that the Huns started the war?

Beneficial Changes

AT THE CHINOOK HOTEL

Mr. J. L. Carter, the new proprietor of the Acadia hotel, Chinook, although he does not legally take possession until April 1, has started in making some very necessary improvements. First, he is putting in a new furnace for the heating plant at a cost of some $700.00; cleaning out the old and unsanitary closet system and putting in sanitary closets with vent pipes, at a cost of $150; having an inside well bored at a depth of 125 feet, fitted with steel casing, at a cost of $300; making a ladies' waiting and rest room on the ground floor; arranging for a new wash room; fitting up the bar-room for a quick-lunch counter; the dining room and every room upstairs to be overhauled, thoroughly cleaned and kalsomined; all bedding, &c., to be sanitary cleaned by experts. When completed Mr. Carter aims to make it one of the most home-like and sanitary hotels in Alberta. A white chef and white help have been engaged and will be on hand by April 1st.

"Tess of the Storm Country"

Medicine Hat Times says:

"Miss Hazel Baker made her first appearance before a Medicine Hat audience at the Empire Theatre and won instant favor, scoring a tremendous hit. As a member of the popular Eckhardt players she essayed the role of 'Tessie Skinner,' that quaint bit of humanity whose oddity and rare charm have made 'Tess of the Storm Country' the great success which it has become. From the moment of her appearance on the stage in the first act to the concluding scene Miss Baker by her fine artistry held the audience enthralled and won the admiration and approval of all. Mr. Eckhardt, as the almost feeble minded Ezra Longman drew more laughs from the audience than in any other role which he has previously appeared in here.

"Tess of the Storm Country" is most delightful and best played production which the Eckhardts have as yet given us. In fact, nothing better could be desired." "Tess of the Storm Country" will be given in Arm's hall, Chinook, Saturday, March 10. Prices $1.00 and 75c, Children 50 cents. Plan of hall at Mills' store.
